We are so pleased to share that our event this year will be held at Congregation Ner Tamid, a Conservative synagogue. As you may know, many Jews abide by dietary rules called kashrut. They eat only kosher food, do not mix meat with dairy foods, and use separate plates and silverware for meat and dairy. Since Congregation Ner Tamid keeps a kosher kitchen, we cannot bring any non-kosher food into the synagogue. Instead, the lunch for our event will consist of 3 delicious vegetarian salads, which everyone can enjoy. This year, we are blessed to learn about Catholicism and Judaism not only from our speakers, but also through the meal we share together.

Conference Fee received by April 21: $25 – lunch included.

Late Registration Fee received after April 21: $30 - lunch not guaranteed.
